DEFINITIVE COURSE RECORD

This definitive record sets out the essential features and characteristics of the FdA Children's Health, Play and Wellbeing course. The information provided is accurate for students entering level 4 in the 2021-22 academic year⁵.

Course Summary

FdA Children's Health, Play and Wellbeing is a work-based programme that enables those working with early years and young children to progress towards graduate status. This Foundation degree develops the skills and awareness to practice in a variety of settings that focus on the support of children and their families in a developmental setting. The course is designed to bridge the education, health and social care sectors where educational play, recreational play and therapeutic play are increasingly used to support children's holistic development and wellbeing. Combining theory and practice of children's health, play and wellbeing has relevance to health care assistants in paediatric, midwifery and neo-natal, portage and family support, as well as early years settings and wrap around care, support in school and therapeutic practices, Play Workers and other therapy assistants and this programme will benefit those intending to enter any number of similar professions. The programme has been designed to be interdisciplinary, and provide the base for professional education and training for new professional roles in a continuing expansion of provision of integrated care and education for children from birth.

Alongside the formal study of the course students are supported with a work handbook where they will benefit from incorporating their regular supervisions in practice, as they document their continuing professional development and make explicit links to their learning.

Course Aims

- To enable the students to critically identify the contribution of play in the holistic development and wellbeing of children.
- To encourage development of specific and generic skills/ transferable skills of value in employment, further study and personal and professional development.
- To provide the students with the opportunity to explore methods and uses of research relevant and appropriate to the children's workforce.
- To provide opportunities for reflection and development of personal and professional skills whilst working within the children's workforce.
- To provide students with a recognised higher education qualification which provides the opportunity to access an honours degree and / or a professional qualification.
