This definitive record sets out the essential features and characteristics of the BA (Hons) Counselling course. The information provided is accurate for students entering level 4 in the 2020-21 academic year.

Course Summary
The BA (Hons) Counselling programme embeds a students’ theoretical learning within opportunities for self-awareness development, counselling skills practice and from year two

1 For an explanation of the levels of higher education study, see the QAA Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014)
2 All academic credit awarded as a result of study at the University adheres to the Higher education credit framework for England.
3 Where the course is delivered both full-time and part-time, the standard length of course is provided for the full-time mode of attendance only. The length of the part-time course is variable and dependent upon the intensity of study. Further information about mode of study and maximum registration periods can be found in the Framework and Regulations for Undergraduate Awards.
4 Details of standard entry requirements can be found in the Admissions Policy and further details about Disclosure and Barring Checks (DBS) can be found on the University’s DBS webpage.
5 The University reserves the right to make changes to course content, structure, teaching and assessment as outlined in the Admissions Policy.
with clinical practice, to introduce students to a clearly defined philosophy of integrative approaches to counselling, and to build an evidence-based approach using research.

This gives students a firm basis to develop an integrative philosophy of counselling culminating in their L6 Dissertation in year three. Students will be introduced to the use of research to guide their therapeutic approaches in years two and three at L5 & L6 providing a firm basis for postgraduate study enabling progression for students who wish to continue into postgraduate study.

In year one the structure consists of four main elements; counselling theory (Psychodynamic, Humanistic and Cognitive Behaviour Therapy), skills practice, personal development planning and an experiential group.

In year two, the theoretical modules (Post Freudian Psychodynamic Counselling and Humanistic Developments in Counselling) will introduce key theoretical concepts, which are then developed by learning practical skills in each of these models (Integrative Counselling Skills) This module includes a L5 introduction to CBT.

The personal and professional development workshop element continues (Working As a Practitioner) encouraging self-reflection and self-development as a student and training counsellor/therapist; personal development planning is an essential aspect. The experiential group provides a further forum for self-reflection, understanding about and support for the learning process, alongside the development of an understanding of group processes through experience. Students will undertake a Research Module which includes carrying out a literature review and developing their skills to understand evidence based practice.

In year three, students will have the opportunity to study CBT for two semesters focussing on CBT approaches to working with anxiety and depression. Issues in the Counselling Room will allow students to present clinical work and to learn about current issues for their clients. Self-awareness development will continue in the Reflective Practice module and students will work to develop their individual integrative professional style culminating in their Dissertation.

The course design meets the guidelines for course accreditation with the British Association of Counselling and Psychotherapy (BACP). While studying, students are required to take up Student Membership. The BACP guides standards for numbers of client hours required in placement, taught hours, personal therapy requirements and course content particularly in relation to ethics and professional practice. On completion of the BA (Hons) Counselling, students are able to apply to change their Student Membership to become Registered Members of the BACP and appear on the publicly available register of counsellors. They are then able to continue with postgraduate or other CPD and additional hours, to become Accredited Members of the BACP.

To enable the course to support students to learn from clinical practice, the course team has consulted with local counselling and social care organisations to provide good placement opportunities. The course team has an ongoing relationship with local stakeholders to keep the curriculum up to date with local need and invigorate curriculum content. The course design requires students to bring their clinical experience to their theoretical learning throughout the course. Students will complete 100 hours of counselling clinical placement as part of the requirement by the BACP. This work place experience will also improve employability.

Counselling students are required as part of course assessment, to develop their self-awareness and the course will provide a requirement for personal therapy, regular personal tutorials and an experiential group facilitated to support learning enabled by student journals.

DEFINITIVE COURSE RECORD

Studying counselling provides an employment route to work as a counsellor in voluntary, statutory and private practice. Students are introduced to different work possibilities during the course particularly in year three as part of the module Issues in the Counselling Room.

Course Aims

• To develop students' knowledge, critical understanding and skills in counselling.

• To cultivate a questioning and critical approach to the understanding of human behaviour.

• To enable students to develop their understanding and practice from an integrative perspective.

• To encourage cognitive development and autonomous learning.

• To encourage emotional development and self awareness which is a necessary requirement to a career in counselling.

• To develop subject specific, cognitive and key transferable skills of value in employment, further study and personal development.

• To provide opportunities that facilitate widening participation by local/non-standard entrants to study counselling and become professionals in this field.

• To help students develop skills and knowledge in preparation for a career as a counsellor.

• To provide graduates with appropriate knowledge and skills that are relevant to the regional counselling provision across service user groups and in Local Authority, NHS (both GP Practice and Hospital settings), and independent (private and voluntary) organisations, to meet local, regional, and national employment needs.

• To promote the development of the student as a reflective, flexible, independent professional with transferable skills for employment in the counselling at work and freelance sector.

• To prepare students for individual registration and accreditation by British Association of Counselling and Psychotherapy and supporting them in the process of gathering the evidence needed for their applications.

• To help students develop research skills and expertise and the application of evidence based practice in their clinical work and the potential for post-graduate study.

• To create a strong foundation for lifelong learning and continuing professional development.

Awards
On successful completion of the course, students will be awarded a BA (Hons) Counselling.

Course Delivery, Assessment and COVID-19
Our guiding principles for delivery during the 2020-21 academic year will be based around a rich blended learning environment, which will include some online delivery of lectures as well as face to face delivery of seminars, lab work and tutorials as applicable. Where possible assessment will be undertaken as planned and where this is not possible, e.g. on-site examinations, an equivalent assessment will be made available to students. We do not intend to have a fully online academic year for any of our students.

Our campus will be safe and welcoming for new and returning students, but we will observe – as all universities must – the government guidance in place at the time and so the delivery and assessment statements below are under continuous review as circumstances change.

Course Delivery
The course is delivered at Ipswich campus. Students studying full-time on BA (Hons) Counselling are likely to have approximately 210 contact hours for level 4, 210 contact hours for level 5 and 210 contact hours for level 6. The contact hours will be a mix of lecture, seminar, experiential group and skills practice and students will also be required to participate in 100 hours/days of work placement. Students will be expected to find their own placement. Students will normally be expected to undertake 12 hours of independent study in an average week, but should be prepared for this to vary based on assignment deadlines and class exercises.

Course Assessment
A variety of assessments will be used on the course to enable students to experience and adapt to different assessment styles. The assessment methods used will be appropriate to assess each module’s intended learning outcomes. Assessment on the course overall will be coursework (including essays, reports, presentations, group work, reflective learning journals and research projects). There will be no examinations.

Course Team
The academic staff delivering this course are drawn from a team that includes teaching specialists and current practitioners. All staff are qualified in their subjects with their own specialist knowledge to contribute and are registered with the appropriate professional body (BACP, BABCP or UKCP).

Course Costs
Students undertaking BA (Hons) Counselling will be charged tuition fees as detailed below.
