This definitive record sets out the essential features and characteristics of the BA (Hons) History and Applied Sociology course. The information provided is accurate for students entering level 4 in the 2020-21 academic year\(^5\).

Course Summary

History and Applied Sociology is a joint combination in which both subjects are given approximately equal weight. Both have their own theoretical underpinning and academic conventions and their combination provides a valuable opportunity to develop more versatile skills and perspectives as well as an appreciation of interdisciplinary connections.

History is designed to develop students' understanding of historical processes through the study of a range of periods and geographical contexts, promoting awareness of continuity and change. Modules span the early modern period to the present and embrace two identifiable strands: British Social and Cultural History and Family and Community History. Over the course of study, students experience key varieties of history with their distinctive focus, theoretical underpinnings and methodological approaches.

Applied Sociology considers the core concepts, theories and methods involved in sociological study and applies them to substantive subject areas such as the family, education, modernity, social inequalities, methodology, sociological theory and the sociology of crime, work and health. History also focuses chiefly on social and cultural history, often making use of sociological concepts such gender, social class and aspects of social theory. It therefore complements the study of Applied Sociology very well and, at times, the two subjects may deal with the same subject matter, for instance regarding the history of social theory where “social history” and the “history of society” may merge.

Course Aims

History

• To provide an intellectually satisfying and worthwhile experience of studying and learning within the distinctive academic framework of History;

• To encourage the development of intellectual maturity, openness of mind and an imaginative and creative approach to problem-solving;

• To enable students to develop a capacity for sophisticated analytical thinking and judgement;

• To enable students to develop a range of subject specific and transferable skills of value in employment including high-order skills in oral and written communication and in the gathering, interpretation and presentation of information;

• To provide the opportunity for students to gain confidence in working both independently and as members or leaders of a group or team;

• To prepare students to undertake further study in History or in related fields.

Applied Sociology

• To provide the opportunity for students to develop an understanding of major concepts and themes in contemporary sociology and an ability to relate them to life in the community and globally;

• Students will develop a critical approach to their studies in sociology, evaluating theory and evidence accordingly;

• To ensure that students develop autonomous learning and research skills which provide a basis for lifelong learning;

• To develop and enhance skills in written, oral and IT communication;

• To ensure that students have the opportunities to develop a range of analytic and graduate skills adequate for a range of professional and life situations.

Awards
On successful completion of the course, students will be awarded a BA (Hons) History and Applied Sociology.

Course Delivery
The course is delivered at West Suffolk College. Students studying full-time on the BA (Hons) History and Applied Sociology course are likely to have approximately 10 contact hours per week. The contact hours will be a mix of lecture, seminar discussion and site visits where appropriate. Students will normally be expected to undertake 25 hours of independent study in an average week if studying full-time, but should be prepared for this to vary based on assignment deadlines and class exercises.

Course Assessment
A variety of assessments will be used on the BA (Hons) English and History course to enable students to experience and adapt to different assessment styles. The assessment methods used will be appropriate to assess each module’s intended learning outcomes. Assessment on the course overall will be mostly coursework including essays, reports, presentations and group work, and up to 6 time constrained assessments and written examinations depending on the module options chosen.

Course Team
The academic staff delivering this course are drawn from a team that includes teaching specialists and current practitioners. All staff are qualified in their subjects with their own specialist knowledge to contribute.
