Course Summary

Most conventional Marketing programmes would generally commence with the observation that the heart of contemporary business success lies in marketing. We agree. Marketing is essential to business operations, achieved through strategic analysis, implementation and control. Marketing is largely responsible for delivering core corporate objectives by offering value and high quality experiences to customers, helping to sustain competitive advantage and develop an organisation's reputation in the long term

Yet the rules of business and indeed the rules of business communication and social engagement more generally have been challenged and changed by recent and rapid developments in IT and digital communications technologies. Recognising this, the BA (hons) marketing programme which is introduced here has been designed to embed an appreciation of the tools, processes and theories of marketing within an intellectual and practical framework which recognises the extent to which modern marketing strategies and practices build and depend upon 'data'. The degree in Marketing aims to develop skills and knowledge of the key strategic and operational aspects of marketing taking proper account of a) the salience of 'big data' b) the intermediary power of information technologies and social media while c) promoting an appreciation of aesthetics and visual language.

DEFINITIVE COURSE RECORD

Course Aims

- To provide students with a systematic understanding of key aspects of marketing through a coherent and integrated programme of study;
- To develop conceptual understanding that enables students to: devise and sustain arguments; use established techniques of analysis to solve problems; and describe and comment on current research in marketing;
- To prepare students for a career in marketing by developing personal and professional skills that will support communication, group interaction, information finding, analysis and problem solving during your period of study consistent with the development of 'career-ready graduates';
- To provide students with a valuable and positive learning experience in your academic studies;
- To provide students with the knowledge to interpret marketing data, and generate practical intuitions to manage industrial and commercial sectors which compose the global market.

Course Learning Outcomes

The following statements define what students graduating from the BA (Hons) Marketing Management course will have been judged to have demonstrated in order to achieve the award.
