the proposal of hypotheses and theories and the testing of these through reasoning, research and practical teaching: they will become reflective practitioners. Trainees will learn to develop the application of critical reasoning to create arguments that provoke new ideas and take their understanding forwards, expressing these in clear ways that can be accessed by others. They will make concrete links between theory and practice and will gain a detailed understanding of the ways in which children learn.

Course Aims
The major aims of the programme are:

- Prepare trainee teachers to teach across the 3-11 age range in one of two primary specialist age phases: Early Years - Early Years Foundation Stage and Key Stage 1- (Pathway 1) and Primary - Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2 (Pathway 2)
- Enable trainee teachers to consolidate their knowledge and understanding of teaching young children and application to the National Curriculum and the EYFS
- Enable trainee teachers to engage in a reflective and practice based programme of training linked strongly to an appropriate level of academic and theoretical study, including the use of action research
- Enable trainee teachers to develop a thorough grounding in the research and academic skills and knowledge that support the role and professional practice of teachers and to demonstrate that they have met the standards of the PGCE award

Course Learning Outcomes
The following statements define what students graduating from the NETT Postgraduate Certificate in Education course will have been judged to have demonstrated in order to achieve the award. These statements, known as learning outcomes, have been formally approved as aligned with the generic qualification descriptor for level 7 awards as set out by the UK Quality Assurance Agency (QAA). 6

The key generic objectives for the PGCE award are for Trainee Teachers:

2. To analyse critically and evaluate in depth subject material, related research and their own practice
3. To demonstrate a thorough understanding of the application of theory to praxis
4. To demonstrate originality and creativity of thought and approach
